Planning Commission OKs change at Country Hills; final say could be City Council's

by Lindy Magner

At its Monday night meeting, the Planning Commission indicated that it would grant Country Hills Residential Care Facility a conditional use permit enabling management to utilize part of a senior facility for drug rehabilitation programs, though, initially, not for the maximum number of beds requested.

After about three hours of testimony and discussion, the commission continued to its Feb. 8 workshop meeting the final adoption of a resolution granting a permit with numerous conditions attached.

Located at 2045 Skyline Drive in a residential area, Country Hills includes two buildings - one still used as a residential facility and the other utilized until last fall as an intermediate-care facility - both serving mostly elderly clients.

Owner Glen Larson's transition of the back building into a drug rehabilitation center has caused vocal concerns of neighbors who say the change in clientele is impacting their quality of life.

At the Dec. 20 City Council meeting, the council voted to require Country Hills management to go through the permit process before making what they saw as a substantial change in use of the facility.

At that meeting, numerous residents testified that the influx of substance-abuse clients has brought noise problems such as radios blaring at 2 a.m.

At the Planning Commission hearing, those concerns were reiterated. Also, residents expressed concern over the type of clientele which was being served; one of the programs is for male and female parolees, and at least one other program receives young mothers who have just completed jail terms.

Currently, 63 patients are in McAlister-operated programs at Country Hills, ranging from two-week detoxification programs to a 165-day program for drug-dependent mothers and their children.

In applying for a conditional-use permit, Larson presented a plan for housing 185 beds for various substance abuse recovery programs operated by McAlister Institute for Training and Education, an El Cajon-based organization.

However, the commission decided to consider granting a conditional use permit for only a 115-bed facility, which would allow some expansion of the existing detoxification and residential programs.

Commission members concerned with the clientele change felt they could approve a smaller project.

"I'd support starting out with a smaller project which could be expanded later, if everything goes well," said Jeffery Jandura.

Commission Chairman Bob Reynolds explained that the applicant would be allowed to apply for a modification of the conditional use permit, following a set time of at least 6 months.

In addition to the size limitation, various improvements and changes will be required, mostly to reduce the impact of noise on the residential neighborhood.

For example, all radios and televisions would be permitted only in group recreation rooms which would be relocated from the north to the south side of the building to decrease the proximity of noise to neighbors. Also, the gazebo which neighbors cite as a center of loud conversation and cigarette smoking, must be moved to another location, or dismantled.

Within 90 days, a 6-foot wood fence must replace wire or chain-link fencing. Landscape improvements will also be required.

Also, the commission stipulated that the Washington Street access-way would not be allowed to be used by the facility.

The Planning Commission had the option of denying the permit request, but chose to allow the modification, on the condition that various improvements to the facility be made in accordance with a set timeline.

Following the meeting, Larson stated that he didn't know yet if he would appeal to the City Council the the Planning Commission decision which he sees as financially cumbersome.

"I don't think they considered the financial impact limiting the size would have, at the same time that they're requesting a lot of improvements to the property," he said. "I'm not sure if I won tonight or not."

For nearly a year, Larson has leased space to McAlister Institute for recovery programs in a building previously state-licensed to serve intermediate-care patients. Larson said he discontinued intermediate care because it was no longer profitable.

Lemon Grove VFW Post 2082 held its 4th Annual Honorees Banquet last Saturday evening.

One employee from each of four different job categories including firefighter, deputy Sheriff, teacher and city staff-person was honored as "outstanding employee of the year."

Capt. Jonathan Torchia of the Lemon Grove Fire Department, Deputy Rick Scully of the Lemon Grove Sheriff's Substation, Nadine Haddock of the Lemon Grove School District and and Robert Larkins of the city's planning department were this year's honorees.

Torchia has been with the fire department for over 10 years, making his current rank two years ago.

He has served as president of the Fire Association for three years and has been involved with the Burn Institute and various charities, and teaches CPR in the community.

Scully was first stationed in Lemon Grove in 1980, and recently solved a series of burglaries and vandalism at five Spring Valley schools and Mt. Miguel High School.

Haddock, a language resource/reading specialist was named this year's "Teacher of the Year" by her district. She is currently competing for the county-wide title.

Larkins, an associate planner in the city's Community Development Department, was honored for his meticulous work and drafting of reports for the Planning Commission.

Following brief speeches by Mayor Brian Cochran and state Assemblyman Tom Connolly, awards were presented.

Planning Commission public hearing held on ordinance which would limit alcohol outlets

by Lindy Magner

At its Monday night meeting, the Planning Commission held a public hearing on a draft ordinance which, if adopted by the City Council, would limit the location of new alcohol vendors within the city as well as require existing establishments to secure city permits for operation.

The commission continued the adoption of the ordinance to its Feb. 22 meeting to allow time for staff to clarify certain stipulations.

According to Community Development Director Jim Butler, the ordinance is in response to direction by the City Council for staff to find a way to regulate the sale of alcohol which it perceives as linked to increased crime and other problems.

The ordinance would limit new alcohol vendors from locating within 1,000 feet of an existing one, and within 500 feet of residential areas, playgrounds, schools, churches or health facilities.

"This key feature is probably the most controversial one," said Butler.

He noted that currently there are 50 businesses operating in Lemon Grove which are licensed by the state Department of Alcoholic Beverage Control (ABC) - 50 in a city of only 3.8 square miles.

"The ABC has been decimated by budget cuts and is becoming more of an administrative agency than a regulatory one. They are recommending that cities themselves become more pro-active," he said.

During the public hearing, owners of bars, restaurants and other vendors expressed concern about how the ordinance would effect their business.

However, those in favor of the ordinance spoke first, with Karen Zaustinsky, executive director of the Lemon Grove Prevention Project, leading the way.

"Alcohol is not innocuous - it is a major factor contributing to social problems and requires special guidelines. Control of alcohol on the community level is now incumbent," she said.

Mt. Miguel El Trovador News Briefs

The Mount Miguel JROTC Rifle Team competed against the JROTC Rifle Team from Lincoln High School on January 21. The final score was 1048 to 935, with the Mount Miguel team winning the event. Mount Miguel shooters included: Chris Miller, who was the high shooter for the team, Mike Huntsman, Eugene Schwisow, Caroline Herrera and Rudy Brathwaite.

The Varsity Wrestling team performed well at the Ramona Varsity Tournament on January 23. Second place winners were Armando Martinez and Jimmy Vargas; fourth place, Jason Riley; fifth place, Paul Sphabmixay and George Lewis.

The Mount Miguel Library is holding a "used" book sale starting Tuesday, February 2 in the library. Students may purchase books for their own library.

Sweethearts bids go on sale on February 2, 1993. Students must clear all fines. The Sweethearts Dance is being held at the Towne and Country in Mission Valley from 8 to 12 midnight.

The Mount Miguel Varsity Boys Basketball team has extended their champion-bound win streak with a 48-46 victory over the Grossmont Foothillers. The team has really come alive having four players in double figures. The next game is today against Monte Vista.

Mount Miguel High School welcomed Teen Challenge, a drug and alcohol rehabilitation group, last week in Sewell Dunton's Career and Family Studies classes. Eight members of Teen Challenge gave testimonials of how drugs ruined their lives. The Teen Challenge center emphasizes self discipline and is credited with a 87% cure rate.

Mr. Frye's Advanced Placement class placed 13th in the State at the Constitutional Convention held in Sacramento on January 20-22. The class also toured the State Capital Building and saw a pro-life and pro-choice demonstration.

Administrative Coordinator Yolanda Lopez, ASB Advisor Mary Beth Kastan and Juliet Erwin, the Human Relations Advisor, were given awards at the Grossmont Union High School District Board Meeting on January 22 by the American Cancer Society because of their work with substance abuse, specifically tobacco issues in connection with the Great American Smokeout held last November.

Superintendent Joanne Smith recognized Science teacher Larry Nordell's Science students at Mount Miguel last week. Receiving this honor were Long Do, John Jacklin, Eric Hardesty, Colette Toomer, Roberto Leal, Amy Littlepage, Kiet Lam and Mark (Thavalin) Sphabmixay.

Calendar Notes: Final examinations end today and students will have tomorrow and Monday off as semester end break. Teachers will have a work day tomorrow and will participate in a Staff Development Day Monday, held at various campuses in the Grossmont District. Second semester will begin Tuesday, February 2.

William Madigan and Robert Windrem's English classes attended a dress rehearsal of the opera comedy "The Barber of Seville" at the Civic Center on the 21st of January.

The Human Relations Club has joined in the efforts of Channel 10 to collect warm clothing and non-perishable foods, particularly baby formula. The closing date is tomorrow when the items will be delivered to the needy.

Retired teachers to meet

The California Retired Teachers Association East County San Diego, Division #69, will conduct a meeting at the Lemon Grove Community Center, 3146 School Lane, in Lemon Grove on Thursday, Feb. 18.

The coffee and social hour will begin at 9:30 a.m.; the meeting, at 10. The program will include a brief business meeting and two speakers.

Wendy Minton, representing HICAP, a consumer advocacy group, will explain issues of insurance, hospitalization, medical insurance and other issues of vital interest to senior citizens.

Bill Butler, former teacher and well-known musician/vocalist, accompanied by Evelyn Estabrook on the piano, will present a program entitled, "Stephen Foster: His Calamity and His Music."

Plenty of parking is available. For more information, call Jim Zumwalt at 469-2447.

Seeking Miss Lemon Grove 1993

Applications for Miss Lemon Grove 1993 are currently being accepted for young women ages 17-22 who are residents.

The pageant is a preliminary for the Del Mar Fair's "Fairest of the Fair" pageant in May in which winners from about 36 pageants countywide compete.

The local pageant is co-sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce, and will be held March 6. Applications may be obtained at the Chamber office in the trolley depot and C&M Wire Co., or by calling Joan Hosaka at 698-2892.

The entry deadline is Feb. 1. Those age 17 must be high-school seniors; those 22 must not turn 23 before June 1. All contestants must be unmarried.

Alcohol ordinance hearing

Capt. William Flores of the Sheriff's Department Lemon Grove Station, spoke on the high percentage of alcohol-related arrests within the city in the past two years.

During 1991, 80 percent of all arrests in Lemon Grove were on such charges as drunk driving, possession of alcohol by a minor, public drunkenness, or furnishing alcohol to a minor, he said.

He stated that 75 percent of those arrests occurred in three of the seven "beats" which divide the city for patrol purposes; those three beats are all along Broadway from College Avenue to Sweetwater Road.

"These areas are well over what the ABC considers high-crime areas," he said.

Lemon Grove School District Governing Board member Ilse Hanning also spoke on behalf of the ordinance, noting its importance as a tool to control the availability of alcohol to minors.

Garth Williams, owner of the Good Guys Bar located on Broadway suggested that maybe the increase in crime was caused more by other factors than by alcohol vendors.

"In the four years I've owned this bar I've seen the class of folks deteriorate since the trolley and the welfare office came in. I'd say the problems are arising more from those," he said.

Representatives from corporations such as ARCO, Thrifty and Lucky also expressed concerns about how local stores would be affected. The ordinance considers the sale of alcohol at grocery and drug stores "incidental" and not subject to regulation if occupying less than 10 percent of store space.

Mass transit

As with most all public agencies, the Metropolitan Transit Development Board (MTDB) is facing about a $7 million shortfall in the coming fiscal year.

MTDB is the parent agency that operates or controls in some fashion the public transit facilities in our area. With a mandate to operate within a balanced budget, some corrections must be made to accommodate the lessened revenue levels that are forecast. The first and foremost answer always seems to the general public to be "raise the fares."

At the present time this solution is being considered, but it is important for the public to realize what else is being done. The admonition that is always the loudest and most often repeated is "sharpen the pencils and go after alternatives."

As a longtime member of MTDB, I can testify that our staff is the best there is with a pencil, and they do not need prodding to keep them sharp.

The first thing that the board did was to approve a wage and hiring freeze. Other than labor contracts already in place, the largest item on the cost of operations list will not be increased. This is a precedent-setting action and one that other agencies might emulate. Also, there is a constant procedure by which service improvements are sought. Rider-ship trends, and changes in the business community often produce the graphs of cost effectiveness and public service to fluctuate in both directions. The frequency of the scheduling, the routing that is or becomes inefficient, can influence the costs of operation. Maintenance and security costs are kind of tied together. Increases in security are being instituted and should diminish the monies now spent on graffiti and vandalism.

Personal comments of Councilman Bob Burns

The problem is that many costs are just impossible to curtail escalation. Fuel costs, insurance premiums, legal costs, equipment repair and replacement, and some administrative costs required by the upper levels of government, are examples. Little or no control is possible in today's economic scene.

So we are back to raising prices for the service. It is predicted that ridership would decrease by about 2 percent if rates are increased, so the increase would have to make up for that loss of fare-box income as well as provide the additional revenues needed.

This obviously is a bummer. The worst thing about fare increases is that it hurts the low income strata of our population, who need public transit the most. Those who are more affluent and can probably well afford a small increase are not usually transit riders.

Proposed fare increases from zero to 50 percent are being considered. The cash fares will be hit the hardest and amount to the bulk of the fares paid. Passes would be raised about 10 percent and it is always hoped that more of the riders will embrace the savings of the monthly pass. Seniors, disabled, and youth fares are raised slightly, but they are the biggest bargain in the program. A senior monthly pass is now $12 and it will be raised $1 to $13. The youth pass would go from $21 to $22.

Compared to other systems across the country, the MTDB is located right in the middle of the spectrum. Some cities and counties do subsidize their systems at a very high rate. San Francisco's cable cars are 15 cents, but that is internal funding and their own brand of bookkeeping. It should be made very clear, that the federal and state monies are procured by our staff to the fullest extent possible. It is just not possible to get anymore of these type of funds than we presently receive.

Public transit is very vital to our economy and even more important in the areas of clean air, traffic congestion, and dependence on foreign oil.

What must be done, will be done with the utmost frugality and concern for the people that are served and who depend upon our trolley or bus systems. When we are fully utilized (when around 50 percent of our population use transit on a regular basis), then these painful decisions will not have to be made.

Commentary

by Paul Treske

Local citizens needed only to look northward last week to feel satisfaction in their own wisdom in November's school board election. Faced with the possibility of creating a religious right majority on the La Mesa-Spring Valley School Board, voters in the two communities sought moderation instead, and avoided what went on in Vista last Thursday night.

As anyone who would care to read this column knows, Vista voted a fundamentalist Christian majority to its board in November and has begun almost immediately to reap a bitter season of divisiveness, suspicion and finger-pointing. Citizens on both sides of the issue of teaching creationism as part of the science curriculum stormed the board meeting and presented observers with a preview of things to come.

The media, TV cameras and all, flooded the place as some 500 interested parents and others argued the merits of teaching the biblical account of creation alongside the scientific theory of evolution. Ominously, the three-person Christian right majority pushed for the board to hire four new attorneys (currently the district has no legal counsel of its own and uses the San Diego County Office of Education counsel for its legal matters). With several of the majority's recommended lawyers having clear Christian right connections, more than a few interested visitors suspect that the board majority is laying the groundwork for pursuing their own ideological causes with legal backing.

Although the board majority denies that it has the teaching of creationism on its agenda, the ACLU has already stepped into the picture on the opposite side. Pointing to a 1987 Supreme Court decision which went against the teaching of the creationist concept in science classes in which evolution is taught, ACLU officials have already promised quick legal action if this is attempted in the Vista School District.

The evolution versus creationism debate has a long and colorful history in America. The famous 1925 Scopes trial in Tennessee has been brilliantly dramatized in book and on stage. Numerous other communities have fought versions of that religion versus science struggle. Despite the fact that modern science has virtually incontrovertible evidence of an evolutionary process, believers in the strict interpretation of the Bible hold to the 7-day description in Genesis. Falling back on the basic argument that final proof of evolution can only be provided by witnesses "who were actually there in person," fundamentalists continue to maintain that since both evolution and creationism are theories, they should be taught side by side.

It is this writer's belief that creationism belongs in a religion curriculum and that it fails any and all criteria of disciplined scientific study. No public school system attempts to enter the privacy of the church to interfere with its beliefs. Similarly, no religious system has the right to enter the public school system, representative as it is of a diversity of religious beliefs, and propound its specific religious dogma.

Vista has a long, agonizing year ahead of it as citizens acrimoniously face off against each other on a series of issues created by the makeup of its school board. Residents of La Mesa, Spring Valley and, also, Lemon Grove, are to be congratulated for their wisdom in avoiding such a wasteful pitfall.

Am I my brother's keeper?

by Joseph Walker

It's starting to look like the old "Batman" television series has taken over the nightly news, you know what I mean? You tune in to your favorite talking head for your daily dose of reality and all of a sudden - Wham! - he starts talking about something horrifying called "ethnic cleansing" in Eastern Europe. And then - Bam! - we see pictures of starving children in Africa. And then - Zap! - here comes Saddam Hussein, and boy, is he angry - again.

Where's the Batmobile? Where's Commissioner Gordon? And where, for Pete's sake, is Adam West and his baggy, purple tights?

Of course, that's pretty much the way things have been throughout the course of human history. Just when you start feeling like the world is becoming kinder and gentler (oops - sorry - wrong Administration), someone somewhere strikes a match and the whole pot starts boiling again.

As nearly as I can tell, it started thousands of years ago when Cain decided he wasn't able - so to speak - to live with his brother. So, he killed him. According to the Biblical account of the world's first murder, God came upon the crime scene soon after the deed had been done and asked Cain where Abel was (not unlike the parent who finds a child elbow deep in the cookie jar and still asks, "What are you doing?").

"I know not," Cain lied. Then he added sarcastically: "Am I my brother's keeper?"

It's an intriguing question - one that we need to give some thought to from time to time. Just who is our brother and our sister? And what is our responsibility to them?

We live in an enlightened age, when most people are willing to accept some sense of duty to our fellow travelers on this planet. We rally to the support of the hungry and homeless. We search for ways to ease the suffering of AIDS victims. And when we see the damage that we are thoughtlessly doing to our environment, we make considerable effort to stop it - if not for our own benefit, for the benefit of generations yet unborn.

But what about those responsible for the dark side of the nightly news? Are they our brothers and sisters, too? Or, do current hostilities allow us to write them off the pedigree chart - and the nations they represent, right along with them?

Of course not. We may have some black sheep in the family at home and abroad, but they are still family, no matter how reprehensible we may find their actions. All who share time and space on the earth are bound by our commonality, despite our differences. Indeed, what we have in common - the ability to love and be loved, the need for acceptance, and the yearning for home and family - is far more significant than divisive (and, ultimately, superficial) issues like race, nationality and political persuasion.

It's important, then, to learn how to use the things we can agree upon to help us bridge the chasm created by the things we can't. Admittedly, this can be an overwhelming challenge at times - especially when we're being inundated by those Whams!, Bams! and Zaps! That's when we need to cling to a broader perspective of the world in which we live. Just as a loving parent occasionally has to discipline a disruptive child, so, too, do the nations of the world occasionally need to quell a disruptive force or circumstance. But there's a difference between "discipline" and "abuse," isn't there? No matter what else we have to do to bring peace to troubled times and places, we need to remember that those who are responsible for the horror we see around the world are still part of our human family. While they may need to be stopped, nothing good is accomplished through an outpouring of hatred or prejudice.

None of which makes any of the unrest in the world easier to bear. In fact, it may complicate things a little to think of armed conflict between people and nations as a family squabble. But, when it comes right down to it, that's exactly what it is. And so we care about the outcome, and not just because it's Us against Them, or because it may have an impact on how much we'll pay for gasoline in the future, or because we don't like to see such unsettling things on the news.

We care, simply because ... well, because we care. Because we're all in this together. Because we're family.

And because we are, after all, our brother's keeper.

From Where I Sit

Is the drought over yet?

by Frank Andrews

All that we have heard the last few years from the weather man is the "California drought." This has been the wettest season that I can remember for the past 30 years. Do you suppose the drought is over?

The rainwater has been flooding through our garage and our deep crawl space under the house is like a miniature lake. Nothing much can be done to cure this problem until it clears up for at least a couple of days. With all this fresh water, even the deserts will be ruined.

I am so happy with my new miniature Sheltie dog, Calli. She has filled the void left from the loss of her predecessor, Lady, which I didn't think possible. This is the cutest little dog that I have ever seen. The only characteristic that she has different from Lady, is her independent attitude. She will warm up to me or anybody when she is good and ready. My wife is a lot like that. I like it better than a dog that runs up and jumps all over you, licking all the way.

The two dogs had some of the same traits, especially their fear of thunder storms. With the recent deluge of storms, my little dog has been going nuts. She does things she wouldn't do normally.

We make a habit of putting her out at night to bark at intruders and help pay her room and board. On stormy nights she makes so much commotion, we end up letting her back in. The other morning, just before dawn, I didn't hear her putting on her storm act and got to worrying about her. It was raining at the time, so I slipped into my slippers and went into the back yard, calling and looking for her. If it wasn't for slippers and undies, I was bare. No sign of my little dog there, so I went out in front of the house, still calling and searching but to no avail.

I went back in the house to dry off and think the situation over. After a short time, I had to break the news of my little dog's disappearance to my wife who was sound asleep in her bedroom. I quietly opened her bedroom door to talk to her, and out struts Calli as cocky as ever. I could just about imagine what she was thinking, "Hey boss, how come you're all wet and cold and I'm so warm and dry?"

I did not wake up my wife, but saved my frustrations until the next day. She then confessed that she had heard the dog and got up and let her in about midnight. I told her of my cold, wet concern for Calli. She gave no sympathy, just said, "What did you think happened to the dog? You know that you are starting to do some very odd things lately."

Now that I'm hearing of all the hardships suffered by people all over the country and especially our neighbors south of us in Tijuana, I feel that our minor difficulties are incidental.

We can repair all the flaws in our property, look forward to another drought, and then wait for the next flood. Maybe we should make plans to build an ark. Anyone know how big a cubit is?

In the Service

Army Reserve Pvt. Racheal A. Moore has completed basic training at Fort Jackson, Columbia, South Carolina.

She is the daughter of Dawn M. Moore and granddaughter of Nora Brown of Lemon Grove. The private is a 1992 graduate of Mount Miguel High School.

Navy Senior Chief Petty Officer Gary D. Couture, son of Walter A. Couture of Lemon Grove, is in the Persian Gulf aboard the repair ship USS Jason, homeported in San Diego, where the U.S. and coalition aircraft recently attacked Iraq in response to continued Iraqi violations of U.N. Security Council resolutions.

Couture's ship has been part of Operation Southern Watch, enforcing a "no-fly zone" over southern Iraq to protect the Shia population there. The air strike was ordered to restore an environment in which there is no threat to coalition aircraft enforcing U.N. resolutions.

Navy presence in the area includes the USS Kitty Hawk and its embarked air squadrons, the command ship LaSalle, four guided missile cruisers, two destroyers, two guided missile frigates and three auxiliary ships. There are 18,500 U.S. troops in the area, including 12,447 Navy personnel.

Couture is a 1989 graduate of Grossmont College, with an associates degree. He joined the Navy in December 1972.

Navy Petty Officer 2nd Class Jimmy A. Smith, whose wife, Natalie, is the daughter of Richard and Claudia Cersosimo of Lemon Grove, is in the Persian Gulf aboard the aircraft carrier USS Kitty Hawk. The 1983 graduate of Waller High School, Waller, Texas, joined the Navy in August 1984.

Knott to leave Helix

by Wendi Lillard

Another great tradition will be leaving Helix at the end of the year. Phil Knott has taught German, political science, and economics for 26 years. He admits he will miss his students and will also miss their sense of humor.

But, Knott is going to Ashgabat, Turkmenistan to teach English at the Turkmen State University (the only one in the country), and assist in the writing of the first Turkmen-English dictionary. His wife, Karen, will also be teaching at the university.

They will also be trying to bring in medical experts to help identify what is killing the children of Turkmenistan. There is concern, of course, for the Knotts' health, too. The nearest hospital is 1,000 miles away, and the water supply is also highly contaminated.

Knott and his wife, Karen, have been invited to stay for two years, but if they feel needed, they may stay longer.

Foothills artists to meet

The Foothills Art Association, a non-profit group of local artists, will hold its monthly meeting on Thursday, Feb. 4, at 7:35 p.m. in the Ben Polack Fine Arts Center Theater, adjacent to the Foothills Art Association gallery, at 8053 University Ave., between Allison Ave. and Baltimore Drive. Refreshments will be served prior to the meeting.

After each meeting, the association has a demonstration artist. This month's artist will be Marilyn Grame, a nationally known painter in pastels of wildlife. She is represented in many galleries and private collections. Be sure to attend the meeting for an enjoyable and tremendously enlightening experience. A raffle will be held for Marilyn's painting.

The gallery show for the month of February will be the annual miniature show. Members are invited to enter up to two works. There is a size limit in the miniature show; no painting can be larger than 12 inches, including frame, at its largest dimension. No sculpture may exceed 12 inches, at its largest dimension, height or width. This is a judged show, with dollar prizes for 1st, 2nd and 3rd place. There is a $1 entry fee per work.

Each month, the Foothills Art Association has a featured artist. The featured artist for February will be Sherry Lee Klepper. Sherry paints both in watercolors and pastels. Her work is found in private collections throughout the United States. She has had award winning work in many juried shows.

This native Californian has studied with well known artists, such as the late Robert Landry, Duane Light, Edna Carter, Marie Wordell and Nancy Livesay. Sherry is a member of the San Diego Watercolor Society, Mission Bay Art Guild, San Diego Art Mart, and Foothills. She is actively pursuing a career in commercial art.

The Foothills Gallery is located at 8051 University Ave., adjacent to the Ben Polack Theatre. Gallery hours are 11 a.m. - 4 p.m. Monday through Saturday, closed Sunday and Monday.

Christian Youth Theater to offer West Coast premiere of 'Bridge to Terabithia'

Christian Youth Theater's East County branch will present the West Coast premiere of "Bridge to Terabithia," beginning Feb. 4.

Set in rural Virginia in the 1960s and based on a Newberry Award-winning children's book by Katherine Paterson, the story is about the friendship of 10-year-old Jesse and the new girl, Leslie. The magical kingdom of Terabithia is their secret country in the woods, where Jesse and Leslie reign as king and queen.

Lora Honeycutt, 15, a Helix High School student, will play Miss Edmonds, a "hippie" in a conservative, rural town where parents are suspicious of teachers who play guitar and sit on the floor.

The production combines the best in quality children's literature with the excitement of live musical theater with costumes, makeup, choreography and special effects. The cast and crew of 84 students, ages 8-18, all currently participate in CYT's after-school theater arts classes offered in La Mesa.

Performance dates are Feb. 4, 5, 12, and 13 at 7 p.m. and Feb. 6, 7, 13, and 14 at 2 p.m. at Lewis Jr. High School, 5170 Greenbrier Ave., San Diego. Ticket prices are $5 - $7, with special discounts for groups of 15 or more. For ticket reservations and more information concerning CYT, call 588-0206.

Palm students to be part of 1,000 Legs

Palm Middle School dance students will be participating in the 3rd annual 1,000 Legs Dance Festival, sponsored by the San Diego County Office of Education, Jan. 29, at the East County Performing Arts Center, 8 p.m.

Schools countywide will be participating. The show which includes over 20 dances will have a variety of types of dances including modern, jazz, funk, musical theater, aerobics, ballet, tap, and several ethnic dances such as Polynesian and Folklorico. The finale entitled, "Stars and Stripes Forever," will have all of the dancers - 400 or more - on stage at the same time.

The 1,000 Legs Dance Festival is an incredible dance effort on the part of hundreds of county-area students and their dance teachers.

The 30 Palm Middle School dancers participating are: Marian Anderson, Stephanie Appleman, Renee Arellano, Brenda Beyer, Sharari Boatman, Mikita Brown, Melody Buresch, Lori Ellis, Crystal Estes, Alissa Fredrick, Chana Gutierrez, Debra Hanlon, Amber Hynes, Sarah Jandura, Natasha Jenkins, Randle Jump, Heather Lawson, Cindy Lovering, Lisa Maderios, Monica Messina, Jennifer Matheny, Tiara Miller, Rachael Montoya, Raquel Moreno, Angela Nelson, Wendiann Nichols, Trenae Owens, Rozalynn Pesta, Valerie Picos and Amy Simmons.

The East County Performing Arts Center is located at 210 E. Main in El Cajon. Tickets are $7 and available at the door or box office before the show.

Auditions set for 'And A Nightingale Sang'

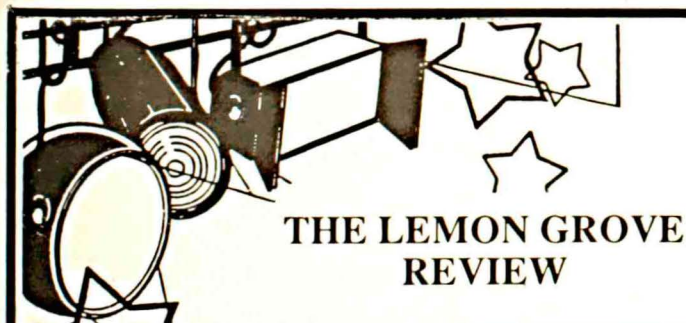

Octad-One Productions, Inc., will hold auditions for "And A Nightingale Sang" by C.P. Taylor on Monday, Feb. 22, and Tuesday, Feb. 23, at 7 p.m. at The Grove Playhouse, Market Place at the Grove, 3450 College Ave., Suite 355A, (lower level next to Pic-n-Save).

"And A Nightingale Sang" is a delightfully nostalgic memory play of World War II in Newcastle-on-Tyne, England.

Directed by Martin F. Gerrish, parts are available for three women, ages 20 to 50 and three men, 30 to 70. Northern English accents will be necessary, but not at the time of auditions.

Production dates are April 22 to May 23. Open audition. Bring resumé.

You will be asked to do a cold reading from script. For further information, call 466-3987 or 583-2418.

NOTICE OF PETITION TO ADMINISTER ESTATE OF
JOHN C. COOPER

Case Number: 158927

To all heirs, beneficiaries, creditors, contingent creditors, and persons who may be otherwise interested in the will or estate, or both, of JOHN C. COOPER, aka JOHN CLIFTON COOPER, aka JOHN COOPER

A PETITION has been filed by RAYMOND F. SCHROEDER, JR. in the Superior Court of California, County of SAN DIEGO.

THE PETITION requests that RAYMOND F. SCHROEDER, JR. be appointed as personal representative to administer the estate of the decedent.

THE PETITION requests the decedent's WILL and codicils, if any, be admitted to probate. The will and any codicils are available for examination in the file kept by the court.

THE PETITION requests authority to administer the estate under the Independent Administration of Estates Act. (This authority will allow the personal representative to take many actions without obtaining court approval.

Before taking certain very important actions, however, the personal representative will be required to give notice to interested persons unless they have waived notice or consented to the proposed action.) The independent administration authority will be granted unless an interested person files an objection to the petition and shows good cause why the court should not grant the authority.

A HEARING on the petition will be held on 2/8/93 at 1:45 p.m. in Dept. F-5, located at: 1501-55 Sixth Ave, San Diego, CA 92101
IF YOU OBJECT to the granting of the petition, you should appear at the hearing and state your objections or file written objections with the court before the hearing. Your appearance may be in person or by your attorney.

NOTICE OF PETITION TO ADMINISTER ESTATE OF
GUTTMAN, JOSEPH
Case Number: 158783

To all heirs, beneficiaries, creditors, contingent creditors, and persons who may be otherwise interested in the will or estate, or both, of: Guttman, Joseph A PETITION has been filed by Guttman, Adam M. in the Superior Court of California, County of SAN DIEGO.

THE PETITION requests that Guttman, Adam M. be appointed as personal representative to administer the estate of the decedent.

THE PETITION requests authority to administer the estate under the Independent Administration of Estates Act. (This authority will allow the personal representative to take many actions without obtaining court approval.

Before taking certain very important actions, however, the personal representative will be required to give notice to interested persons unless they have waived notice or consented to the proposed action.) The independent administration authority will be granted unless an interested person files an objection to the petition and shows good cause why the court should not grant the authority.

A HEARING on the petition will be held on FEB 22, 1993 at 1:45 p.m. in Dept. F-5, located at: 1501-55 Sixth Ave, San Diego, California 92101-1946
IF YOU OBJECT to the granting of the petition, you should appear at the hearing and state your objections or file written objections with the court before the hearing. Your appearance may be in person or by your attorney.

IF YOU ARE A CREDITOR or a contingent creditor of the deceased, you must file your claim with the court and mail a copy to the personal representative appointed by the court within four months from the date of first issuance of letters as provided in section 9100 of the California Probate Code. The time for filing claims will not expire before four months from the hearing date noticed above.

Pictured with Transportation Chairman Bob Niderost are: Morgan Teachworth and Chad Cooper, Troop 319 Lemon Grove; Grant and Nic Mogoffin, Troop 155, Dulzura; Jake Richards, Troop 804, Jamul; Ivan Navarro, Troop 15, Lakeside; Sean Freeman, Scott Richmond, James and Joey Bridges, Matt Reistetter, Jeremiah Deering, Troop 355 Spring Valley; James Clinton, Troop 303 El Cajon; Michael Ryan, Troop 980 El Cajon; Nathan Lloyd Troop 349, El Cajon; and Jesse Tellez, Troop 108, Lemon Grove.

The San Diego County Council, Boy Scouts of America, 1993 National Jamboree Committee hosted its kickoff meeting for scouts and their parents at St. Rita's Catholic Church on Saturday, Jan. 9. The Jamboree Committee, chaired by Bob Klaiber, has been meeting for a year to set up the administration and support for 72 Scouts and eight adult leaders to attend the 1993 National Jamboree at Fort A.P. Hill, Virginia, Aug. 4-10. National Jamborees occur every four years with approximately 35,000 scouts from the United States and many foreign countries in attendance. Currently, 52 scouts have signed up for the Jamboree with 20 spaces still available. First Class Scouts or above wishing to attend the Jamboree can contact Maury G. Tasem at 447-1595 or contact Virginia at the Council office at 298-6121 extension 47.

The National Jamboree trip also includes numerous sightseeing activities. Departure is Tuesday, July 27. Scouts will walk the Freedom Trail, see the historical points in Boston, New York City, Philadelphia and Washington, D.C. In Washington, they will visit the Lincoln, Jefferson, Iwo Jima and Vietnam memorials. One of the highlights of the trip will be the changing of the guards at Arlington National Cemetery where the scouts will participate in a special ceremony at the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier. Sunday, Aug. 1, and Monday, Aug. 2, the scouts will tour Mt. Vernon, Williamsburg and the National Air Space Museum, followed by the National Archives. Finally, the National Jamboree at Fort A.P. Hill, Virginia, for an experience of a lifetime. The Jamboree is on Aug. 4 through Aug. 10.

You can help make this dream come true for other Scouts. The Jamboree Committee is looking for cash donations to the Jamboree Scholarship Fund, United frequent flyer miles to defray travel expenses, and work projects for the Scouts to earn money to help pay for their trips. If you can help in any way, please contact Sandy Sanborn at 487-6376.

Grossmont Union High School District news by June M. Mott, Board Member

The Governing Board dealt with 58 items at its last meeting on Jan. 21.

Lynnea Venieris, director of the mentor teacher program, gave a final report on the third comprehensive summer institute offered by the district last summer. The total number of teachers attending was 160 who participated in the 1,337.75 in-service hours offered. Fifty-six different courses offered by expert teachers in the district covered all curricular areas to provide appropriate and beneficial techniques and procedures for classroom use.

Unanimous approval of sending a letter favoring A.D.A.P.T.'s (Alcohol and Drug Abuse Prevention Task Force) proposed beer-keg tagging program was given.

Howard Owens, aide to Assemblyman Tom Connolly, spoke in support of this program. Connolly has agreed to introduce legislation to require retailers of beer kegs to tag each keg sold and to require a large enough deposit to encourage the purchaser to return the keg with the tag intact. Each tag would identify the license of the retailer, who must keep a record of that number as well as the date, name, address and driver's license number of the purchaser. The reasons for the legislation are obvious: to discover and discourage those who are providing alcohol to minors at parties.

The board also approved a strategic Planning Calendar embracing nine workshops from Feb. 19-July 22.

Article 9 (bylaws of the board) had its second reading and was unanimously adopted by the board.

A report on the damages caused by the recent heavy rainstorms was given by the business department's Carl Berry. Damages at Granite Hills, Monte Vista, Mt. Miguel, Valhalla, Grossmont, and Foothills Adult Center were listed. Superintendent Jo Ann Smith broke up the board and audience when she facetiously interjected the comment that Tom Flood, Monte Vista's principal, had finally thrown off the curse of fires only to have floods (no pun intended) replace them! The total damages are approximately $200,000 - nothing to laugh at.

Four temporary teachers, hired in September, had their contracts extended for second semester: Noll Bishop, Mary Hanson, Jason Lee, and James McLaughlin.

Four classified resignations were accepted: John Atkins (Data Systems) who left for another job; Kittie Bahnmiller (food-service assistant); Wendy Hausner (bus driver) who retired after six years on the job; and Rhoda Riddell (instructional aide).

In the case of a bus driver, disciplinary action of suspension for three days without pay for violating Governing Board Policy GCN 2a and 2b was meted out by the Board.

By a vote of 4-1, the Board approved participation with the San Diego County Offices of Education in the initial development of VEBA, Voluntary Employees Benefits Association. The goal is to implement a county-wide benefits plan potentially serving 40,000 school employees and saving substantial future dollars for health coverage. Such a group could negotiate directly with health care providers to offer very competitive plans for managed health care. Cost to the District is $5,000 in initial fees which can be applied to premium costs if the District joins VEBA within two years. Michael Harrelson cast the negative vote because he did not want to be in the potential position of subsidizing districts that cannot manage their benefit plans in a cost-effective manner.

A letter from state Superintendent of Education Bill Honig informed the board that school districts and county offices should not pay any funds "up front" or as reimbursements to any independent study students or their parents unless the same payments are made on exactly the same terms to classroom study students or their parents. Although some districts have offered "stipends" of as much as $1,000 yearly to parents of home independent study students, Grossmont never has done so!

The Legislature has, in the 1992 Budget Act, now made this illegal.

A request from the Grossmont Education Association to join with an education coalition to adopt the "Re-invest in America" resolution was approved. This would mean that the nation's top budget priority would be children's - our nation's future-healthiness/readiness to learn.

The third-year interim accreditation report for Grossmont High School was received, read, and approved.

Approval was given to Grossmont High School to apply for a specialized secondary grant - and implement it if approved - to pilot a program for students interested in pursuing careers in the medical health care fields.

If funded, Grossmont would receive $35,000 to use for planning such a program. There is no impact to the general fund.

Approval of option and purchase agreements with University Financial Partners to purchase the leasehold interest in the real property located at 698 West Main St., El Cajon, for $900,000 was given to the District, which is also joined by the San Diego County Office of Education.

This would allow the Career Development Center, the ROP, etc., to be under one roof. There is absolutely no truth to the rumor that a health clinic would be established here or anywhere else in the district. How these rumors get started is a real annoyance; the district has no such plans and urges people to disregard such falsehoods!

Letters of appreciation are being sent to Rhonda Knappen who donated a Kimball organ, bench, and six music books to West Hills H.S.; Mr. and Mrs. Larry Hume for a Sears Equatorial Reflector telescope to Helix and to Gordon Nash for donating a Sanyo TV valued at $617 to Helix's science department.

The district is eligible to receive $167,622 in funding to provide services and programs for special population (disadvantaged) adults attending ROP classes under Section 232 of the Carl D. Perkins Vocational and Applied Technology Act of 1990. Approval was granted to implement this grant to adult students at the Health Occupations Center, Valhalla ROP Center, and El Cajon Valley H.S.

At the Dec. 10 meeting of the board, approval was given to the district to join with the San Diego Consortium to implement the Career Center concept for East County at the Grossmont Career Development Center. The initial agreement was for start-up funds to begin developing employment opportunities for displaced East County defense workers through June 30, 1993. The board approved up to $25,000 in additional funding at its Thursday meeting.

In the same vein, the board approved an agreement with the San Diego Consortium and Private Industry Council to provide up to $54,750 for the retraining of workers and long-term unemployed under Title III of the Job Training Partnership Act, through June 30, 1993. This will provide on-the-job and classroom training to laid-off workers and long-term unemployed. Under another section of this same act $60,000 is available to provide job-search workshops and placement assistance to long-term unemployed and laid-off workers. Approval was also given to this section by the board and to two others in the same category: services for outreach, recruitment of JTPA-eligible participants, assessments, development of a Training Service Plan, enrollment, supportive service payments, monitoring program competency completion, and job search assistance for $18,250 in funding through June 30, 1993; and services up to $38,400 in funding for out-of-school youth including recruiting of JTPA-eligible participants, assessment, development of an Educational Developmental Plan, enrollment, supportive service payments, monitoring program competency completion, and placement in unsubsidized private sector employment and/or return to school through June 30.

Tobacco Use Prevention Educational funds will provide for a facility use fee of $175 at Davis YMCA for youths enrolled in the Learn-to-earn program serving young people who have dropped out of school.

The Career Development Center provides intensive career development services for six weeks and ends in the completion of an employment development plan and placement in a full or part-time job. The goal includes reconnection of the participant with some kind of educational program related to the job or employment development plan.

The board also authorized the award of bid #2525 for band uniforms for Grossmont High School to the lowest bidder.

Special recognitions went to Helix teacher Rick Ash for receiving the Southern California Interscholastic Football Coaches Association Gib Dear (assistant football coach) award; and the American Cancer Society's recognition of District employees who supported the Great American Smokeout.

There should no doubt in anyone's mind that the Grossmont District is attempting to ease the crunch of unemployment for its citizens in terms of retraining.

The next board meeting is on Feb. 4 in the Grossmont High School cafeteria at 7 p.m. Everyone is welcome.
